JUNIOR CLASS DANCE IDEA

Does not Meet With Board's Approval.

DAVIDS STREET BUILDING

To Have a New Addition of Four Rooms.

The Present Building Found Inadequate to Take Care of School Children of West Marion.

In order to provide school facilities for the rapidly increasing population in West Marion, the city school board at its meeting last night, voted to double the size of the David Street building, constructing a four room addition. The buildings and grounds committee was authorized to have an architect draw up a set of plans for the proposed addition also advertise for bids. The addition will cost about $10,000. The contract will be let about May 1.

The building question has been a most conspicuous one with the school board for the past few years. It is scarcely a new problem. The board has been endeavoring to secure a building large enough to provide for the great demand and seemingly all the time, there is a congested condition in all the schools despite the fact that a fine large building has been added each year to the already long list of magnificent edifices comprising Marion's great school system.

Before definitely deciding upon constructing an addition at the David street building, the board investigated financial conditions. It can scarcely construct buildings not sufficient gold in the building fund to make the desired improvement. After thoroughly discussing the matter it was concluded that a part of the contingent fund could be used or even the money borrowed and thus effect that which is almost absolutely necessary for the good of West Marion.

A question which was probably given more attention than any other considered, was whether or not the Junior class should be allowed to entertain the senior class at a dance. It seems as though the ambitious Juniors have planned something very elaborate for their dignified friends and are formulating plans to entertain them at a banquet and ball to be given in the Huber hall. The majority of board members did not favor a dance in connection with a school affair.

Mr. Sweney stated that he was not opposed to dancing when in its proper place but declared that probably only about thirty per cent of the members of either class could dance and the remainder would be compelled to pay an elaborate price only to be spectators.

Mr. Christian stated that a committee from the Junior class had waited upon him and the chairman of the committee declared that the Junior class had voted 35 to 8 in favor of the dance. Mr. Christian's opinion was that if the majority wanted to dance, let them dance. He said that he had cautioned them against too great an expense which would undoubtedly be the most objectionable part of the affair.

"I don't care how much people dance, let them dance their shins off," remarked Superintendent Frank in the course of the discussion, "but I am not in favor of a few 'fantastic' toe' enthusiasts running in that amusement in an annual established school occasion which should draw every student of the respective classes, thus causing perhaps a score to stay away and yet pay their good money. The parents are really the ones who will suffer in the end," continued Mr. Frank.

Mr. Dickerson was emphatically opposed to the dance in connection with the banquet. He said: "Let them give the customary banquet, and eliminate the ball part then the cost will not soar so high, for they can have a fine banquet for $2 a plate."

"Why not cut out the banquet and have just the ball, which could be given for just 50 cents apiece," cynically interrupted Mr. Christian.

The board took no action in the matter but since the members are so opposed to the dance it is probable that the Juniors will respect their wishes and eliminate that part.

Mr. Frank reported that Janitor Peter McClain of the Davids street building is off duty on account of a severe attack of grip and requested that the board secure a substitute. Member Dickerson was authorized to look after the matter. The superintendent also stated that in accordance to the board's request, he is collecting the old records of the schools and that the principles of the various grades have handed in a score. He said that one of the records dates back as far as 1840 and contains many interesting details.

B. P. Sweney of the commencement committee announced that he had rented the opera house at a cost of $75, for the night of the last Friday in May.

Mr. Frank displayed a number of drawing plates put out by the students of the graded schools, the work to be on exhibition at the Jamestown exposition. The board marvelled at the accomplishments which the drawing represented and pronounced the work among the finest they had ever witnessed, paying Miss Rachel Thomas, the drawing teacher a nice compliment.

Bills amounting to $5707.48 were allowed and warrants ordered drawn for their payment.
